

NOBI TALAI

Spring/Summer 2016

The summer collection by Berlin-based label NOBI TALAI is shaped by a thrilling duality. It is inspired by the garments of Persian nomads on the one hand and characterized on the other by a practicality which unites enwrapped silhouettes, minimalist looks and sculptural wrapping and layering techniques.

Clean, cool, contemporary. The purist aesthetic interprets traditional elements of Middle Eastern culture in a wholly way and creates a style with a particularly relaxed aura. Sophisticated, worldly fashion which evokes understatement rather than globetrotting fits in seamlessly with any wardrobe around the world.

Soft white, light cream, calm greige and exquisite midnight blue – monochrome looks which radiate serenity and tranquility. Light crêpe de Chine silk fabrics and smooth velour emphasize the distinctive architectural style. The self-designed pattern prints are inspired by Persian felt rugs, while high-quality, handmade designs recall traditional tailoring.

Draped wrapping techniques run through the entire collection like a common thread. Skirt and trouser widths can be adapted to suit individual sizes – this is perfect for establishing an individual look.

Despite their experimental character, the models appear feminine and classic, yet uncomplicated and strong. Dresses, boleros, palazzo trousers, capes - special everyday outfits which are always in fashion and never become irrelevant. Beautiful, figure-flattering favorites which always make you feel well dressed. Exceptionally stylish pieces, which will remain relevant for many seasons to come.

The Spring/Summer 2016 Collection's exceptional prints were created in collaboration with renowned textile artist Philipp Rupp.
